This cartoon might be representative of some conceptions of what the architect is called upon to do.
A typical scene in an architect's office. The majority of the Architectural students will start out as secondary draftsmen in an office such as this.