Table of Contents (Volume 64, Number 1, 2003)
CONTENTS

SYMPOSIUM: PERSPECTIVES ON JUDICIAL INDEPENDENCE

Foreword

James J. Brudney & Lawrence Baum ................................................................. 1

Elections and the Challenge to Judicial Autonomy

Keynote Address:
Thorny Issues and Slippery Slopes:
Perspectives on Judicial Independence
The Honorable Shirley S. Abrahamson ........................................................... 3

Judicial Elections and Judicial Independence:
The Voter’s Perspective
Lawrence Baum ............................................................................................. 13

Why Judicial Elections Stink
Charles Gardner Geyh .................................................................................. 43

Know Before You Go:
A Case for Publicly Funded Voters’ Guides
Cynthia Canary ................................................................................................. 81

Public Funding of Judicial Elections:
The Role of Judges and the Rules of Campaign Finance
Deborah Goldberg ............................................................................................ 95

Proposed Legislation on Judicial Election Campaign Finance
Roy Schotland .................................................................................................. 127

Keynote Speech:
Electoral Accountability and Judicial Independence
The Honorable Thomas R. Phillips ................................................................. 137

Accountability and Separation of Powers Issues

Recalibrating Federal Judicial Independence
James J. Brudney ............................................................................................. 149

Thoughts on Goldilocks and Judicial Independence
Frank B. Cross ................................................................................................. 195
Judicial Independence and the Ambiguity of Article III Protections
Tracey E. George ..............................................................................................................221

Judicial Independence Through the Lens of Bush v. Gore: Four Lessons from Political Science
Howard Gillman ..................................................................................................................249

Pamela S. Karlan ..............................................................................................................265

Yet Another Article on Bush v. Gore
Ronald D. Rotunda ..........................................................................................................283

What Do We Mean by “Judicial Independence”?
Stephen B. Burbank .........................................................................................................323

Commentary: The Role of the Organized Bar in Promoting an Independent and Accountable Judiciary
D. Dudley Oldham & Seth S. Andersen ................................................................................341

A Normative Appraisal of Social Scientific Knowledge Regarding Judicial Independence
Terri Peretti .........................................................................................................................349

Faculty Editors: James J. Brudney, Newton D. Baker-Baker & Hostetler Chair in Law, The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law, and Lawrence A. Baum, Professor of Political Science, The Ohio State University

Ohio State Law Journal Symposium Editor: Amanda M. Church

The papers in this symposium were presented at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law and the Ohio Statehouse on March 21–22, 2002. This conference was a three-way partnership among the Moritz College of Law, including the Ohio State Law Journal and the Center for Law, Policy, and Social Science; the John Glenn Institute for Public Service and Public Policy; and The League of Women Voters of Ohio Education Fund. This conference was also made possible by generous grants from The Joyce Foundation, the Program on Law & Society of the Open Society Institute, the Judge Alan E. Schwarzwalder Fund in Public Service and The Ohio State University Office of Research.