Introduction: Online Consultation and Democratic Communication

  Peter M. Shane ................................................................. 1

Articles

Web 2.0: New Challenges for the Study of E-Democracy in an Era of Informational Exuberance

  Andrew Chadwick ............................................................... 9

Complexity, Information Overload, and Online Deliberation

  Oren Perez ........................................................................ 43

Deliberation and Inclusion: Framing Online Public Debate to Enlarge Participation. A Theoretical Proposal

  Laurence Monnoyer-Smith .................................................. 87

Municipal Environments, Nonprofit Entrepreneurs, and the Development of Neighborhood Information Systems

  Steven J. Balla .................................................................. 117

Building the Bottom Up From the Top Down

  A. Michael Froomkin .......................................................... 141