Libraries' "Welcome Week" Activities Set for Sept. 19-23

The Libraries has several activities planned for Welcome Week, September 19-23, and we need library faculty and staff to help. Please take a look at the list below and lend your support.

Monday, September 19: Student Involvement Fair: The Libraries will have a table on the Oval with all the other campus groups between 12 and 4 p.m. Volunteers are needed to staff the table. If you would like to volunteer or have materials you would like to make available as handouts, please contact Fred Roecker (roecker.1@osu.edu 2-5172).

Tuesday, September 20: Digital Library Story Booth: A booth will be set up in the Thompson Library from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. to videotape people's stories about libraries, books, and reading. Each person will have up to five minutes. The tape will be edited and shown later in the week on monitors in the library. Each participant will receive a small token and an entry in a drawing for prizes. Volunteers are needed during this time to register participants. We also would like to have student employees to help "prime" the participants with questions during the videotaping. If you would like to volunteer, or know some outgoing student workers who would like to participate (we would pay the students, of course), contact Nancy Courtney (courtney.24@osu.edu 8-8771).

Wednesday, September 21: Food table and handouts in the Science & Engineering Library arcade from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There may be a popcorn machine and snow cone machine. Please contact Marty Jamison (jamison.1@osu.edu 2-3046). Tours of various department libraries on the hour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. If you have not yet volunteered your library to provide tours and would like to, please contact Marty Jamison (jamison.1@osu.edu 2-3046).

Thursday, September 22: Library Game Show: From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the terrace outside Main Library (with rain alternative inside). Contestants will spin the wheel and answer questions in a variety of categories about OSU, books, or OSU libraries. Winners will receive a small prize and be entered in a drawing for a bigger prize. Wes Boomgaarden will emcee. We may also set up the popcorn and/or snowcone machine here as well. Volunteers are needed to help register contestants, hand out food, and other miscellaneous duties. Volunteers can also help prepare the contest in advance. Contact Eboni Francis (francis.144@osu.edu 2-6125). Eboni is one of our residents, if you haven't met her yet. (continued pg. 2)

Each team has one photographer and the other team members must be in each photograph. They

Libraries' Faculty Teaching Four Freshman Seminars

Five members of the OSU Libraries faculty will be teaching freshman seminars this fall and winter.

Hitchhiker's Guide to Library Research*, Edward Riedinger: The goal of this seminar is to help students understand and use library research resources to develop critical annotated bibliographies.

New Ways of Looking at Old Books: Did Size Matter in the Sixteenth Century?*, Jim Bracken: The topic of format and its relationship with contemporary popularity and historical impact has been little studied. What were the really best selling books of the 16th century?

Analyzing the Appeal of Manga*, Maureen Donovan: This seminar focuses on printed manga (Japanese comics and cartoons) now being translated into English at an unprecedented rate.

God, Guns, Gay Rights and Google: Researching Controversial Issues on the Web*, Karen Diaz and Nancy O'Hanlon: Students in this seminar will learn to evaluate the information found through a Web search, and develop strategies to broaden their horizons by conducting systematic research on a controversial topic.

The seminars provide exciting opportunities for first-year students to interact with and learn from top faculty from the university. The small discussion format allows students and faculty to share their enthusiasm for the discovery process of scholarship. Distinguished faculty introduce students to topical and cutting-edge research areas from a wide variety of disciplines. These one and two-credit hour seminars are open only to first-year students and have a maximum class size of 18.

Listening to What We're Seeing

Diana G. Oblinger, Ph.D.

OCLC

Thursday, August 25, 9:30 a.m.

One student walks across campus listening to an iPod; another is engrossed in text messaging on her cell phone. During class, they're Googling, IMing and playing games—often at the same time. More likely to use the library as a gathering place than a resource, this is the Net Generation. They co-exist beside older students who are juggling work, child-care and eldercare. Do we understand our learners? What do their experiences, attitudes and expectations mean for educational institutions?

In her presentation, Dr. Diana Oblinger will help participants listen to what we are seeing - and respond.

As Vice President for EDUCAUSE, Dr. Oblinger is responsible for the association's teaching and learning activities and the direction of the EDUCAUSE Learning Initiative. EDUCAUSE is a nonprofit association whose mission is to advance higher education by promoting the intelligent use of information technology. The current membership comprises nearly 1,900 colleges, universities and education organizations, including 180 corporations.

Dr. Oblinger serves on a variety of boards including the National Science Foundation's Directorate of Education and Human Resources, the National Academies Forum on Information Technology and Research Universities and the University of Texas TeleCampus. She also chairs the National Visiting Committee for the National Science Digital Library project for the National Science Foundation. Dr. Oblinger is co-author of the book "What Business Wants from Higher Education," which received the 1999 Frandson Award for best literature.

Advanced registration is encouraged but not required. RSVP, by email to disbrowk@oclc.org or by calling OCLC Research at (614) 764-6073. Please indicate your name, affiliation and phone number.
