Paul Kennedy, J. Richardson Dilworth Professor of History at Yale University, speaks on “How the Second World War Was Won” on April 14, 2007, at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies. The lecture attracted an invitation-only audience of 65.

Paul Kennedy holds up a copy of “The United Nations in its Second Half Century,” the 1996 report by the International Commission on the Long-Term Future of the United Nations. Kennedy was Secretariat of the commission, and spoke on the past, present and future of the United Nations on April 14, 2007, to an audience of more than 250 people at the Wexner Center for the Arts.
Paul Kennedy speaks on “The Elusive Rudyard Kipling” on April 15, 2007, at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies. The lecture attracted an invitation-only audience of 65.