Project: Passport: Newsletter of the Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations (SHAFR)
Principal Investigators: Peter Hahn, Mitch Lerner, History Department

Since 1969, the Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations Newsletter has provided a forum for the discussion of issues related to the practice of American diplomacy, while also presenting historians of U.S. foreign policy with a reliable source of professional information.

In 2003, the newsletter was renamed Passport, and editorship passed to Peter Hahn and Mitch Lerner, with support from the Mershon Center. Passport’s purpose is:

- To print essays on substantive issues related to the study of American diplomacy, particularly those focusing on newly opened archival materials.
- To host debates among scholars.
- To offer detailed information regarding new publications, scholarly competitions and awards, calls for papers and contributions, and other relevant resources.

During the 2005-05 academic year, Passport included such articles as:

- A roundtable critique of John Gaddis’s Surprise, Security and the American Experience.
- “Fear and (Self) Loathing in Lubbock, Texas, or How I learned to Quit Worrying and Love Vietnam and Iraq,” by Robert Buzzanco.
- “The Past is More than Prologue: Reflections on the Cold War and the War on Terror,” by Marc J. Selverstone.
- Perspectives on teaching the history of U.S. foreign relations.
- Annual list of doctoral dissertations in U.S. foreign affairs.

In producing Passport, Hahn and Lerner aspire to provide historians of American diplomacy with a forum that educate them about the field, the profession and the fundamental issues surrounding U.S. foreign policy in the international arena.
