

Katherine Meyer, Professor of Sociology, presents results from her project with Craig Jenkins "Repression/Dissent Nexus in the Middle East" at the Faculty Research Seminar Series on April 9, 2009, at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies.

Craig Jenkins, Professor and Chair of the Sociology Department, presents findings from "Repression/Dissent Nexus in the Middle East." The multiyear project, funded by the Mershon Center and a grant from the National Science Foundation, has already resulted in eight published papers, with 18 more in process.

Mershon associates Bruce Weinberg (left), associate professor of economics, talks with John Casterline, professor of sociology, during dinner at the Faculty Research Seminar on April 9. Seated next to them is Tony Mughan, director of the International Studies program.