OHIO STATE JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL LAW

Volume 5 Number 2 Spring 2008

SYMPOSIUM

TOWARD A JUST AND RATIONAL BODY OF SUBSTANTIVE CRIMINAL LAW:
A SYMPOSIUM IN HONOR OF SANFORD H. KADISH

Toward a Just and Rational Body of Substantive Criminal Law
Stephen J. Schulhofer ................................................................. 367

Professor Sanford H. Kadish’s Scholarship .................................... 371

Culpable Acts of Risk Creation
Larry Alexander & Kimberly Kessler Ferzan .................................. 375

Conceptions of Overcriminalization
Andrew Ashworth ........................................................................ 407

Reforming Complicity Law: Trivial Assistance as a Lesser Offense?
Joshua Dressler ............................................................................ 427

Self-Defense and the State
Kimberly Kessler Ferzan .............................................................. 449

Contrived Defenses and Deterrent Threats: Two Facets of One Problem
Claire Finkelstein & Leo Katz ........................................................ 479

Thoroughly Modern: Sir James Fitzjames Stephen on Criminal Responsibility
Stephen J. Morse ........................................................................ 505

Impossibility Attempts: A Speculative Thesis
Peter Westen ................................................................................. 523

JUSTICE HARRY A. BLACKMUN LECTURE

Is the Exclusionary Rule Obsolete?
David Alan Sklansky ..................................................................... 567
WALTER C. RECKLESS MEMORIAL LECTURE

The Disturbing Case of the British Advertising Standards Authority, the New York Times, and the State Department’s Low Estimate of the Death Toll in Darfur

John Hagan & Wenona Rymond-Richmond

COMMENTS

In Defense of the Damned

Stanley A. Goldman

611

A Comparison of Criminal Jury Decision Rules in Democratic Countries

Ethan J. Leib

629

Immigration Law and Long-Term Residents: A Missing Chapter in American Criminal Law

Sandra Guerra Thompson

645

REVIEW

The Fourth Amendment, 1789–1868: A Strange History

Bruce P. Smith

663

REPRINT OF INAUGURAL COMMENTARY IN OSJCL AMICI: VIEWS FROM THE FIELD

SENTENCING LAW AFTER GALL AND KIMBROUGH

The Top Ten Things I Learned From Apprendi, Blakely, Booker, Rita, Kimbrough, and Gall

Judge Richard G. Kopf

1

Letting Guidelines Be Guidelines (And Judges Be Judges)

Judge Gerard E. Lynch

1

Gall, Kimbrough and Crack Retroactivity: Positive but Incomplete Steps in the Evolution of Federal Sentencing

Judge Lynn Adelman & Jon Deitrich

1

Gall, Kimbrough and Me

Judge Nancy Gertner

1