The eight papers in this issue are addressed to issues in pragmatics, semantics, syntax, discourse analysis, and morphology—especially to issues touching on two or more of these areas at once; the final paper touches on phonology as well. The section by Lee is a revision of parts of her Ph.D. dissertation (March 1974). The contributions by Kantor and Pollack are revisions of their M.A. theses (originally accepted in 1975 and 1974, respectively).
