Solicited submissions will be requested by the editor or by a member of the editorial board. Book Reviews will be requested of individuals expert in the subject matter of the book to be reviewed. The approximate length will be 750 words, and the text will include a brief description of the subject matter addressed by the volume, its outstanding strong points, and any obvious weaknesses. Research Reviews will be requested to serve as extensive surveys of the literature of an area of science in which Academy members have an interest. In general, reviews will comprise five to ten printed pages. Organization and format of solicited material will be determined by the author(s) and the editorial staff.

Unsolicited submissions, in the form of presentations or summaries of qualitative or quantitative data pertinent to any of the sections of the Academy listed in the front cover, will be considered for peer review. Brief Notes are manuscripts which will be published on less than two printed pages (i.e., less than six pages of typescript) and will contain no more than one piece of illustrative material (fig., tables, figures). The decision will be made parenthetically in the text, for example "(Patterson 1940); however, a graphic scale should be incorporated into the figure. Besides the original art work for each illustration, two photocopies of each should be submitted to avoid delay in the review process.

References to scientific literature should be arranged alphabetically by first author's last name according to the following examples:

Abbreviation of journal titles should be supplied by the author, and should follow the CBE Style Manual form. References in the text are of the form Patterson (1940) or Patterson 1940. If more than two authors appear, the figure should be Patterson et al. (1940), with all authors listed in the Literature Cited section.

The first page of the manuscript must be the width of the table below the column headings and at the bottom of the table. Do not use vertical lines, and do not place horizontal lines in the interior of the table. Footnotes should be used to clarify possible questions within the table, and should be noted as asterisks, daggers, or other symbols to avoid confusion with numerical data. General style of tables can be seen in recent issues of THE JOURNAL.

FIGURE LEGENDS. Each figure must have a complete legend even though the material is described in the text. The legends should not be placed on the figure, but should be typed in order, double-spaced, on a separate sheet which precedes the figures in the manuscript. Figures should be referred to parenthetically in the text, for example (Fig. 1).

FIGURES. All illustrations are referred to as "figures," and must be numbered consecutively. Figures may be photographs, hand- or computer-generated line drawings in black ink. For the sake of economy, closely related illustrations should be grouped and mounted close together on white cardboard. Reproductions of single unit, however, should be numbered consecutively, and placed in the manuscript after Literature Cited.

REFERENCES. References in the text are of the form Patterson (1940) or Patterson 1940. If more than two authors appear, the figure should be Patterson et al. (1940), with all authors listed in the Literature Cited section.

TABLES. Tables must be typed double-spaced, one table to a page, numbered consecutively, and placed in the manuscript after Literature Cited. Since tables must be individually typeset, consolidation of data into the smallest number of tables is encouraged. A horizontal double underline should be made beneath the name of the table, and single underlines should be placed above and below the columns headings and at the bottom of the table. Do not use vertical lines, and do not place horizontal lines in the interior of the table. Footnotes should be used to clarify possible questions within the table, and should be noted as asterisks, daggers, or other symbols to avoid confusion with numerical data. General style of tables can be seen in recent issues of THE JOURNAL.
