1972-07

Book Review

The Ohio Journal of Science. v72 n4 (July, 1972), 223-223
http://hdl.handle.net/1811/5707

Downloaded from the Knowledge Bank, The Ohio State University's institutional repository

Leicester's narrative history of chemistry, long regarded as one of the standard, internal histories of this field, was first published in 1956. This book is an unaltered reprint of that edition. In it, Leicester surveys chemical developments from the time of the ancient Egyptians up to about the 1920's.

There is a subject and a name index. References to the original literature at the end of each chapter are generous.

JUNE Z. FULLMER