

Walter Slocombe, a partner at the Washington, D.C., law firm of Caplin & Drysdale, speaks about "Future Security for Iraq" on April 14, 2004, at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies. From May to November 2003, Slocombe was Senior Advisor and Director for Security Affairs (National Security and Defense) in the Coalition Provisional Authority for Iraq.

(Left to right) Mark Jacobson, Visiting Scholar at the Mershon Center from the Department of Defense, Walter Slocombe, and Mershon Center Director Richard Herrmann, stand in front of a portrait of Joseph J. Kruzal, former Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for European and NATO Affairs, killed in Sarajevo, Bosnia. Slocombe gave the Kruzal Memorial Lecture.