

My Lavalier
Lynsey Kamine

My lavalier is iced blue, chained and true.
A raindrop dressed with jewels patiently sleeping in a little white box then tossing, turning into knots. Yet it never awakens until I knead out the spots that have tangled in the darkness of the little white box.