

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY'S AGRICULTURAL TECHNICAL INSTITUTE

- Within four months of graduation, 99 percent of ATI graduates are employed or enrolled in bachelor's degree programs.
.....
- Ohio State ATI is ranked #1 in the nation (among both two- and four-year institutions) in the awarding of degrees in agriculture and related sciences (Community College Week's "Top 100," June 2008).
.....
- Ohio State ATI is one of the few places in the U.S. where students can earn a degree in floral design and marketing, and its program has been recognized as one of the best, earning the Best Overall School at the American Institute of Floral Designers 2005 annual symposium and student design competition.
.....
- ATI's Business Training and Educational Services worked with 23 Ohio companies between 2003 and 2008 through Targeted Industries Training Grants. The participating companies reported increased business, improved quality, reduced scrap and waste, reduced downtime, improved employee retention, and increased efficiency, and they valued the outcomes at more than $26.3 million annually.

The Ohio State University Agricultural Technical Institute (Ohio State ATI) embraces human diversity and is committed to ensuring that all research and related educational programs are available to clientele on a nondiscriminatory basis without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, or veteran status. This statement is in accordance with United States Civil Rights Laws and the USDA.

Dr. Steve Nameth, Ph.D., Associate Dean and Director, Agricultural Technical Institute

TDD No. 800-589-8292 (Ohio only) or 614-292-1868

ati.osu.edu

