

home > events > mar2013 > william wohlforth

August

September

October

November

December

January

February

March

April

May

Event Archives

National Security Speaker Series

William Wohlforth

“America Abroad: The United States' Global Role in the 21st Century”

Friday, March 22, 2013

12:30 p.m.

Mershon Center for International Security Studies

1501 Neil Ave., Columbus, OH 43201

View event recording in Windows Media

View event recording in RealPlayer

Download podcast on Mershon subscription page

William C. Wohlforth is the Daniel Webster Professor of Government at Dartmouth College. He has research interests in international relations theory, international security, Russian foreign policy, and the Cold War.

He is author of Elusive Balance: Power and Perceptions during the Cold War (Cornell, 1993) and editor of several books, including Witnesses to the End of the Cold War (Johns Hopkins, 1996); Cold War Endgame: Oral History, Analysis, and Debates (Penn State, 2003); The Balance of Power in World History (Palgrave Macmillan, 2007), with Richard Little and Stuart Kaufman; World Out of Balance: International Relations Theory and the Challenge of American Primacy (Princeton University Press, 2008), with Stephen G. Brooks; and International Relations Theory and the Consequences of Unipolarity (Cambridge University Press, 2011), with G. John Ikenberry and Michael M. Mastanduno.

He has a BA from Beloit College and a PhD from Yale University.

William Wohlforth
Daniel Webster Professor of Government
Dartmouth College

