
MEETING OF THE BIOLOGICAL CLUB.

ORTON HALL, April 13, 1903.

Mr. Griggs presiding, the program opened with the reading of minutes of last meeting.

One of the members on the program being absent, the time was occupied by Prof. Haines in a review of Lloyd Morgan's book on "Animal Behavior," published some time since.

Under reports of committees, Dr. Kellerman reported that Prof. Pollard would give his lecture on May 4th. The committee was instructed to continue preparations for the lecture and to prepare a program.

The motion was carried that this meeting take the place of the regular club meeting of that date, and a business meeting be held afterward.

Under new business, the following propositions to amend the constitution of THE NATURALIST were submitted by Prof. Land-acre :

1. That the editorial staff shall consist of an editor-in-chief, a managing editor, or business manager, and of associate editors, representing the different branches of science represented in the Club.
2. That the publication funds be secured by subscriptions (The price of the fourth volume to be one dollar for single subscriptions.) by suitable advertisements and by the sale of exchanges.

Messrs. J. B. Hyde and Jas. McOwen, Jr., were elected to membership.

OTTO E. JENNINGS, Sec. pro tem.

On Monday, May 11, at a special, called meeting of the Club, the amendments given above were adopted.
