DEDICATION

The Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution would like to dedicate Volume 17 to Dean Nancy Hardin Rogers in honor of her appointment to the office of Dean of The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law, in recognition of her leadership in the field of alternative dispute resolution, and for her ongoing support of the Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution.

Dean Rogers, a pioneer in the field of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR), was instrumental in the creation of the Ohio State Journal on Dispute Resolution, now the official publication of the American Bar Association's Section on Dispute Resolution. She is a nationally respected scholar who has taught and written extensively in the area of dispute resolution. Her publications include co-authoring a two-volume treatise on mediation that received the CPR Legal Program Book Prize in 1989, co-authoring a short text on mediation that received the same national prize in 1987, and co-authoring a leading law school textbook in dispute resolution. She was also instrumental in building the College's Dispute Resolution Program, now ranked fourth nationally among law school dispute resolution programs by U.S. News & World Report. Dean Rogers is also a National Conference Reporter for the National Conference of Commissioners of Uniform State Laws Drafting Committee on the Uniform Mediation Act.

For her scholarly and public service contributions in the field, she received the Ohio State Bar Foundation's Ritter Award in 1998 for outstanding contributions to the administration of justice; the American Arbitration Association's Whitney North Seymour, Sr. Medal in 1990 for outstanding contributions in the dispute resolution field; and the Society of Professionals in Dispute Resolution's Distinguished Service Recognition in 1990. In 2001 she was named the Michael E. Moritz Chair in Alternative Dispute Resolution at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law.
