

OHIO STATE JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL LAW

---

Volume 8 Number 1 Fall 2010

---

SYMPOSIUM

NEUROSCIENCE, COGNITIVE PSYCHOLOGY, AND THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM

Introduction

Deborah W. Denno ..... 1

Police Are People Too: Cognitive Obstacles to, and Opportunities for, Police Getting the Individualized Suspicion Judgment Right

Andrew E. Taslitz..... 7

Prosecutorial Agnosticism

Alafair S. Burke ..... 79

Citizens' Assignments of Punishments for Moral Transgressions: A Case Study in the Psychology of Punishment

John M. Darley ..... 101

The Promise and Pitfalls of Neuroscience for Criminal Law and Procedure

Susan A. Bandes ..... 119

ARTICLE

Does Criminal Law Matter? Thoughts on Dean v. United States and Flores-Figueroa v. United States

Eric A. Johnson ..... 123

COMMENTARIES

The Excitement of Interdictory Ideas: A Response to Professor Anders Walker

Mark O. DeGirolami ..... 155

The One-State Solution to Teaching Criminal Law, or, Leaving the Common Law and the MPC Behind

Chad Flanders ..... 167

Guilty by Implicit Racial Bias: The Guilty/Not Guilty Implicit Association Test
Justin D. Levinson, Huajian Cai & Danielle Young ..... 187

REVIEWS

Responsible Victims and (Partly) Justified Offenders
R. A. Duff ..... 209

Proportionate Thoughts About Proportionality
Richard G. Singer ..... 217

TERM PAPER

An Honest Services Debate
Sara Sun Beale ..... 251

LETTERS TO THE JOURNAL

Samuel R. Gross & Barbara O'Brien..... 273

Response by Richard A. Leo & Jon B. Gould ..... 277