

OHIO STATE JOURNAL OF CRIMINAL LAW

Volume 3 Number 2 Spring 2006

SYMPOSIUM

THE MIND OF A CHILD: THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN BRAIN DEVELOPMENT, COGNITIVE FUNCTIONING, AND ACCOUNTABILITY UNDER THE LAW

Introduction

Katherine Hunt Federle.....317

Neurobiology and the Law: A Role in Juvenile Justice?

Staci A. Gruber & Deborah A. Yurgelun-Todd321

Neuroanatomical Background to Understanding the Brain of the Young Psychopath

James H. Fallon.....341

Roper v. Simmons: The Role of the Science Brief

Aliya Haider.....369

The Scientific Shortcomings of Roper v. Simmons

Deborah W. Denno379

Brain Overclaim Syndrome and Criminal Responsibility:

A Diagnostic Note

Stephen J. Morse.....397

Poor Children: Child “Witches” and Child Soldiers in Sub-Saharan Africa

Naomi Cahn.....413

COMMENTARIES

Battered Women and Sleeping Abusers: Some Reflections Joshua Dressler	457
The Charter of Rights and the Administration of Criminal Justice in Canada—Where Have We Been and Where Shall We Go? Honorable Claire L'Heureux-Dubé	473
Generally Speaking, Canada Is Going in the Right Direction: A Response to the Honorable Claire L'Heureux-Dubé Peter Sankoff	491
Beyond Belief: Rethinking the Role of Belief in the Assessment of Culpability Eric A. Johnson	503
Evidence History, the New Trace Evidence, and Rumbblings in the Future of Proof Robert P. Mosteller	523

REVIEW

Learning from Journalism Samuel H. Pillsbury	543
--	-----