

Vice President: Will the graduates please rise?

Provost Huber, as Vice President for Agricultural Administration I have the honor of presenting the candidates for the Associate of Applied Science degree from The Ohio State University's Agricultural Technical Institute. These candidates have completed all the degree requirements, been approved by the faculty of the Agricultural Technical Institute and are therefore deemed worthy of this distinction.

Provost: Vice President Moser, graduates, in the name of The Ohio State University, upon the recommendation of its faculty and by the authority of its Board of Trustees, I hereby confer upon each of you the degree, Associate of Applied Science. Congratulations and welcome to the company of educated women and men.

Please be seated.

(Unannounced the Provost, Vice President and Director proceed to center stage to present the diplomas to the graduates. A faculty member will call the roll of graduates present and the Assistant Director for Academic Affairs will hand the diplomas to the Provost. Faculty Marshals will assist with the student order.)
